About me

Hi, I'm Aritra — a Full-Stack Developer working primarily with JavaScript and AI. I love building scalable front- and back-end systems and obsess over architecture, performance, and clean code that is easy to evolve. Outside of day-to-day development, I am continually exploring how to write better code as a craft - through patterns, testing, and thoughtful tooling. When not coding, I travel and study music from different cultures and languages.

EXPERIENCE

2023–2025

Software Engineer 2

HYDRABAD · India

Currently working as a Node.js full-stack developer, building with React on the frontend and Express on the backend. Managing multiple standalone frontend repositories and consolidating them into a single experience using micro-frontend architecture with Module Federation to enable shared components, consistent design systems, and cross-repo code reuse. Implemented reusable packages and federation modules to reduce duplication and streamline deployments across teams and apps. Built a JMeter runner in Node.js for the QA team, providing an easy CLI/automation layer to run performance test suites, parameterize environments, and collect reports without manual setup.

2022–2023

ThirdEye Data

FULLSTACK ENGINEER · Kolkata

Built cross-platform mobile apps with Cordova and developed robust backends using Django, alongside extensive internal projects with React + TypeScript. Expanding into Flask/Node.js, serverless architectures, Docker, and CI/CD; actively interested in open-source contributions to deepen real-world impact.
